

It is such a shame with all of the terrible and hateful things happening in today's world that there are still people so consumed with greed and the desire to make money that this is what they choose to focus on. The NAB is such a powerful and recognized organization I think that it is really sad that their board is not focusing on more important matters relating to the nation as a whole. Also, if they are so concerned about xm taking profits away from them they should spend their money improving their technology instead of trying to hinder the advancement of others.
